Hi Erin! This is completely off-topic but I need your help in reaching the ACLU. I found an argument, which I've reviewed with a lawyer, that could very well be the difference between winning and losing Orr v. Trump. I know you're concerned about this case too, so can you help me?

She actually helped me craft this! But she doesn't have direct ties to the ACLU, and I have 3 days to get it there before the filing deadline.

He spent a bunch of money on IVF so he would have only sons. Then along came Vivian and ruined that plan.

Which shows that it isn't a fucking choice

Menarra • 6mo ago • Edited 6mo ago
Transgender

More shows that it has little to do with genetics, but yes it also isn't a choice. We're born that way and most of us would probably prefer if we hadn't been, life would be a hell of a lot easier for sure. But that doesn't mean I'm going to have regrets or live a lie for anyone else's comfort.

NorCalFrances • 6mo ago

FYI the genetic influence has been shown repeatedly since 1970. The timing, the genes involved and the processes in-utero are all known as of 2025, as is the familial (ie genetic lines) and epigenetic influences. It's just that it's exceedingly complex; there's no single "trans" gene, or even 3 or 4.

trainsoundschoochoo • 6mo ago
Transgender

Probably the same for homosexuality, I presume.

NorCalFrances • 6mo ago • Edited 6mo ago

There's so much proof for either.

Fun fact: In gay men the olfactory bulb receptors linked to the parts of the brain that handle sexual attraction are keyed to the smell of men, not women. It's a matter of a sex-dimorphic body part developing in utero opposite expectations that were based on birth assignment genital inspection. Follow that path far enough and you begin to realize that LGBTQ people are all similar in that all the letters in it are of mixed sex development in various sites scattered across the body.

Actually it’s been proven that gender dysphoria is genetic , it’s in the neurological spectrum of the person .

Jessright2024 • 6mo ago

So there are theories, but nothing has been proven and it’s more likely a combination of things.

Zoeeeeeeh123 • 6mo ago

But a person’s neurology is still for a large part shaped by genetics

Zestyclose-Soft-5957 • 6mo ago

I don’t see how that’s possible. Being transgender has genetic influences, but not all transgender people have gender dysphoria. My dysphoria went away after I transitioned which makes sense since it’s about the discomfort of having a body that doesn’t align with your gender identity.

SlyTinyPyramid • 6mo ago

Transition is the treatment for dysphoria

Littha • 6mo ago

We don't know how it's possible but we do have data on it. The more closely related you are to a trans person, the more likely you are to be trans yourself (by quite a large amount). Like 35% for identical twins and 16% for non identical twins.

It could be genetic, it could be hormonal, could be both (epigenetic) but there is also high confluence with neurodivergence. Not likely to be a single gene though, probably a whole host of them and there may be different "Types" of dysphoria depending on the specific ones (Proprioception vs endocrine dysregulation)

Genetics does play a role.

Phantoms especially drive home the fact it’s not a choice. Cis people don’t have trans phantoms.

iamthpecial • 6mo ago

I like how someone else here put it a while back, that he is more like an unhappy customer than even an upset father. Its all transactional to this guy. I hope that he goes away sooner than later. Someone please convince him to go to Mars already or whatever

Someone please convince him to go to Mars already or whatever.

Salty_Permit4437 • 6mo ago

Like full self driving I doubt that project will ever reach a working state.

iamthpecial • 6mo ago

I read that a policeman wasn't able to issue a ticket to a self driving car that made an illegal traffic maneuver, so those have got that going for them. But nah I wouldnt for instance trust one on interstate driving or something but im also not an egomaniac techy overconfident in my intellect and AI, and just today I saw a guy on a motorcycle going 90 with no protective gear at all.

Just because it isn't a sound choice, doesn't mean that arrogance cannot get it gone anyways. That's all I ask.

2 more replies

Voodoo_Dummie • 6mo ago

Its even worse than that in that, even while true self driving isn't a thing yet, Musk's cars are especially bad at self driving because he refuses to use LIDAR and only wants to use cameras.

freakincampers • 6mo ago

He does IVF because his dick is broken, right?

olderandnowiser1492 • 6mo ago

Naw, he can't get children pregnant.

Should Netflix cave, I'm prepared to cancel my subscription and will encourage others to as well; Disney should be a lesson, censorship will lose you money, don't comply in advance.

eta: I realized I didn't have a subscription, forgot I'd cancelled a few years ago, I've renewed it.

sacrecide • 6mo ago

Not just Disney, look at Target. The only reason I like Netflix so much is that they are allowed to greenlight what they want without the FCC's asinine rules. If they remove lgbtq content, there is absolutely nothing separating them from their competitors.

lumiya17 • 6mo ago

Considering how quickly they told protesters to kick rocks over complaints when they did several hyped anti-trans "comedy" specials, Netflix gets zero sympathy. However, I'd suspect that most of the reich wing that listens to him don't have a Netflix account anyway. They aren't going to be able to do the same financial pressure that Disney got on losing subs.

What's funnier is these are all shows that have ended their runs or were canceled by Netflix years ago. So it's obvious that this is just another relevance grab by him since he's still on the outs with the rotten orange

NorCalFrances • 6mo ago

After the Dave Chappelle* mess & subsequent boycott, they funded a number of queer shows to play both sides of the fence.

*currently performing at a Saudi Arabian comedy festival held on the anniversary of the murder of dissident journalist Jamal Khashoggi by order of the crown prince.

LinkleLinkle • 6mo ago

> However, I'd suspect that most of the reich wing that listens to him don't have a Netflix account anyway. They aren't going to be able to do the same financial pressure that Disney got on losing subs.

They also have absolutely zero clue on how boycotts work. Some of the boycotts these people have attempted:

Buying Starbucks so they can say their name is 'Merry Christmas' 'Trump' and 'Charlie Kirk'

Buying several 24 packs of Budweisery so they can make videos of themselves shooting them/pouring them down their drain

Boycotted France by calling French Fries 'Freedom Fries'.

Even over the recent boycott over Disney, I've seen them continue not understanding what a boycott is. I've seen several conservatives laughing at anyone boycotting Disney+ because 'You're just supporting the conservative boycott over Disney being Woke'. Not understanding the difference between screaming on Youtube about 'Woke Star Wars' and cancelling Disney+ because over the firing of a talk show host.

At this rate, I'd expect that their 'boycott' of Netflix will involve getting a Netflix account and naming their profile 'Elon Musk'. Thinking they've done something. Netflix will likely see an increase in sales over this, because they have absolutely no clue how to boycott.

TransPM • 6mo ago

I'm sure the "go woke go broke" crowd have a perfectly reasonable explanation for why Disney suddenly lost a shitload of subscribers and revenue the moment they caved to the anti-woke crowd

PavementBlues • 6mo ago • Edited 6mo ago

Netflix massively fumbled the Dave Chappelle specials, but they've also held their ground against

Trump and maintained a focus on DEI in their recruiting efforts and internal operations.

It's a low bar, but they're one of the few big tech companies not collaborating with the Trump regime right now.

I agree. Also, you renewed netflix in order to cancel it if they cave?

keytiri • 6mo ago

I renewed it show my support, and the first show I watched was that paranormal one to see what the bruh-hah was; it's like a modern scooby-doo with a talking dog too.

SufficientPath666 • 6mo ago

Check out the show called KAOS on Netflix too. It has a trans male main character

ShesRevolutionary • 6mo ago

But this isn't like the Kimmel and Disney+ where the government pushed for the cancelation. This is just Musk and his pathetic attempt at a clapback(?) to Kimmel being reinstated. And while he does have some reach and leverage, it's not on the same scope and level as say, the US government demanding you to cancel shows.

You don't like don't watch it. Why should content be banned just because conservatives don't want to watch it?

SlightlyAngyKitty • 6mo ago

They don't want others to watch it either, it might just humanise their boogeyman scapegoats

[deleted] • 6mo ago

They're authoritarians that want to control all media

3x3Eyes • 6mo ago

Control all people who are not already rich.

Dwarfherd • 6mo ago

While Elon is championing it, the media control is more strongly driven by seven pillars Christian fascism.

SamTheSilkie • 6mo ago

Us being in media helps encourage the idea that we're just people, too - having it around could give people ideas and is dangerous to their campaign to dehumanize us

spearmintqueer • 6mo ago

I now need a list of every Netflix show with a trans character in it so I can start watching them right now and add views

Upturned-Solo-Cup • 6mo ago

I enjoyed Sense8 immensely, but. It is a strange show

mytransthrow • 6mo ago

I mean its the wachowski sisters... so its a bit strange is standard practice

EpicGlitter • 6mo ago

it leans towards pro-cop, so, some of the "a bit strange" isn't in a good way. imo.

fwiw, I try to ignore that storyilne/character, and otherwise like the show a lot. the scene with everyone singing What's Up by 4 Non-Blondes lives in my head rent free

Dwarfherd • 6mo ago

Wouldn't be Wachowskis without something problematic.

Wait until Musk sees Sense8, I will bet his mind will implode!!!!!!

[deleted] • 6mo ago

And if Netflix caves, their stock will go down even further from all our cancellations!

wtf_is_a_crumpet • 6mo ago

I was going to cancel my subscription today, due to this I now have to keep my subscription for the foreseeable/ until this blows over. If they take any of these shows/ films down then I'm unsubscribing. Also; Disclosure is such a goated documentary please watch it if you haven't already!!!

Edit: wanted to cancel to save money, however I'd rather vote with my wallet here and not accidentally join in a mass unsubscribing based off of hate.

Dead end should be brought back id love to see more of it it was a great show that was only canceled due to transphobia and antisemitism within Netflix

FinallyMeg • 6mo ago

Maybe he should spend more time looking after his car company than us and Netflix

louisa1925 • 6mo ago

No wonder why his daughter hates him. Worst sperm donator ever.

Buntygurl • 6mo ago

With all of the privilege his wealth can afford him, this is what he wants to do?!

Musk is one seriously fucked-up individual.

helgaxmann • 6mo ago

Elon hates his trans daughter's transition. He feels betrayed. Male heirs are important to oligarchs and meglomaniacs. She stopped being male. No male heirs from his eldest son. He extended his hate because he feels that our community led his child astray. He wants to shut off any reference to that community to anyone else. He may buy Netflix to accomplish that evil goal! We need to hamstring his campaign. We need to watch as many of these videos as possible snd increase their viewership and threaten to cancel if the programming is removed. It's called people action and hitting them in the pocketbook.

FloriaFlower • 6mo ago

I had already cancelled Netflix during the Chapelle debacle. I can't even threaten them to leave ☹. I no longer have any streaming subscription because they're all evil and I boycott all of them.
